

Junie B. Jones loves adventure. Her whole life is one adventure after another. And yet, everything happens close to home at school, home and around town.

How does she get to go on so many wild adventures in a small town like our town?

It's her imagination. Her imagination gets her asking questions "What if" kinds of questions. These questions bring on different emotions. Sometimes she is happy, other times sad or nervous. Sometimes she gets anxious and starts thinking crazy ideas.

It is her ideas and imagination that make the stories so funny, right? Oh, and sometimes really funny stuff does happen to her.

So this week, let's be like Junie B. and ask "what if" questions before we do something each day.

For example, you are going out for ice cream, think of 3 "What ifs" before you go such as:

- 1) What if they are out of my favorite flavor? Add your own answer such as, "And then I try all the flavors before I pick one!"
- 2) What if the store asks me to scoop the ice cream? And I have to scoop the ice cream but I need a small ladder to reach and then I fall into the ice cream chest and dad has to pick me up and I am all covered with the ice cream and then...
- 3) What if my ice cream starts to melt so fast... and I have to use turbo speed on my tongue to lick it all up!

Use the next page to come up with some fun "What if" ideas so you can be imaginative and creative like Junie B. Jones!

Have Fun

What if?

Day 1: _____

Space for a picture

Day 2: _____

Space for a picture

Day 3: _____

Space for a picture

Day 4: _____

Space for a picture